Prices held their levels of yesterday in the morning hours on the Stock Exchange to-day in the face of a bear effort to cause recessions soon after the opening. Their drive drew out few stocks. The shorts professed to see a general market calamity in the Russo-Polish situation and more particularly in the reported difference of opinion as to a settlement that extota between Great Britain and France. Shares gave way from 2 to 3 points, but quickly rebounded when pressure was removed.

This activity continued throughout the entire afternoon, shares declining a few fractions and then going back to around the former levels. Steel, Crucible and Baldwin held well after advances in the morning. Vanadium, after touching 67 1-4 in the morning model off to 64 5-8 and in the closing hour bounded back to 66 1-8. The olia were strong.

Time money was almost unobtainable. What there was of it was at 9 per cent, mixed collateral and 9 1-4 to 9 1-2 on all industrials. Call money was at 7 per cent until the third hour, when it eased to 6 per cent.

Foreign exchange had the general appearance of doing a mathematical shimmy. It opened strong, went to better levels and then declined. An illustration is afforded in the first four transactions in the German mark at .0217, .0219, .0221 and then .0216.

In the afternoon the foreign exchange market was quiet without any great change in quotations. Traders were apparently awaiting the results of the impending battle for Warsaw. Sterling was $3.55 3-8, off 11-8; francs 20728, off .0005; lire .0501, off .0004, and marks .0217, up .0002.
